YOUNG CYCLONE HITS MOKENA

STORM MOVES CHURCH PARTLY OFF FOUNDATION; WINDOWS ARE BLOWN IN; OTHER DAMAGE

A wind storm of cyclonic proportions struck this section suddenly Wednesday morning at 1:30. The wind came up from the northwest, and blew a veritable gale. The St. Mary Catholic church at Mokena was moved about six inches off the foundation and the windows on the west side of the edifice were blown in. A barn on the Henry Martensen place was demolished. Many trees and wires were blown down. A few miles north and east of here the storm appeared to be more severe. Considerable damage is reported from the various farms.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Houchiu, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Duringer and son Edward, Mr. and Mrs. G. Vanderside, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and children, of Roseland; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Heintz, Martin Heim, Mr. and Mrs. Mangold and son, of Blue Island, were guests of their aunt, Mrs. John Semmler, last Sunday.

The bazaar and picnic, given by the ladies of St. Mary's Catholic church, at the Cappel grove, Saturday afternoon and evening, was a rousing success. Over $500 were taken in. It is estimated that approximately between $400 and $450 will be cleared after all expenses are paid. Several prizes were given Mrs. John Liess won one of the main prizes, and Mrs. Charles Reynolds also won a big prize.

The Mokena Home Improvement Club will meet with Mrs. E. P. Krapp on Thursday, Sept. 29th. The following program will be given:

Study—Rudiments of Parliamentary Law.

Paper—About Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma.

Paper—Suffrage Responsibility Discussion—Cooking and Canning with Pressure Cooker and Uses of Fireless Cooker.

Roll Call—A Good Cartoon.

That News-Bulletin ads. are business getters is demonstrated by the fact that Albert Hellmuth, local harness and auto top maker, is getting all kinds of business for auto top and curtain work as a result of the adv. he is now running in this paper. Mr. Hellmuth says the adv. is drawing like a mustard plaster. He does good work and at a right price. As he is located in the center of a good automobile territory, he is getting the auto owners' trade, which would otherwise go to other towns or cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Lauffer met with a quite serious accident last Thursday afternoon. They were driving out to the farm of their son, Charles, when the horse shied and upset the buggy into a ditch. No auto or other vehicle came along for some time. George McGovney finally came along, picked them up and took them to George Marti's place. Elmer Cooper, son-in-law of the couple, was notified by telephone of the accident, and took them home. Mr. Lauffer suffered injuries in his chest. He is getting along as well as can be expected.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank all relatives and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and death of our mother and grandmother; also for the beautiful floral offerings.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN CAPPLE AND FAMILY.

NEUMONIA FATAL TO FRANKFORT GIRL

Clara, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harmoning, was taken ill with pneumonia the latter part of the week, and died Sunday night. The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the late home to the St. Peter's Evangelical church. Burial in Pleasant Hill cemetery. Rev. G. Lambrecht officiated.

The annual Ernte Dank Fest will be observed at the St. Peter's Evangelical church this coming Sunday. The communion will also be served.

The monthly Kaffee Kranz of the St. Peter's Evangelical church will be held at the church parlors next Thursday afternoon.

STOPPING THE LEAKS.

Charles G. Dawes, named by President Harding to arrange a national budget and see if he can stop a few financial leaks, has started in to plug up one hole thru which the taxpayers of this country have long watched their money flow. He is going to stop the printing of millions of dollars worth of useless government reports and pamphlets. Every taxpayer in America will be glad of this, for everyone realizes that a vast amount of money is wasted by the government printing office. In fact, it is conceded that of the seven or more carloads of printed matter leaving the office daily, not more than a sack full of it is read.

And another place where Dawes could save the government money, and at the same time show a spirit of fairness to the printers and publishers of this country, would be to eliminate the envelope-printing practice. The government has no more business printing return cards on envelopes than it has in manufacturing shoes or marketing its own make of automobile. Yet it has for years entered into unfair competition with the printers of this country by offering, at a few cents more than the paper alone costs, envelopes printed with a return card. It is below the dignity of this nation to stoop to such competition as this, and we feel Mokena taxpayers could do no fairer thing than to tell their Congressman so, either by word or letter.

These envelopes are not only printed at a loss to the taxpayers, but printers and publishers, who pay taxes, are deprived of that much trade. There is also a loss on various other government printed matter, much of which serves no better purpose than to furnish lamp-lighters or material for waste-baskets. We predict that Mr. Dawes will pay his salary several hundred times over in the saving he makes in the government printing office alone.

Elfrieda and Arthur Kriess attended the E. P. K. meeting at Chicago Sunday afternoon.

Judd Pittaway and family, of Chicago, spent the week end with the Hatch family.

Walter Cooper and family were in Joliet Sunday, at the home of the Geo. Cooper family.

Blind Can Now Play Bridge, Take Shorthand Dictation

Great Strides Have Been Made in Teaching Sightless Victims Ways in Which to Be Self-Supporting, Says Sir Arthur Pearson

Sir Arthur Pearson, the author of this article, is well known both in this country and abroad for the excellent work he has done to relieve the affliction of those blinded during the war. However, he does not confine his work to former soldiers, but extends it to the sightless generally. This article is reprinted from a recent issue of the London Daily Graphic.

From the point of view of invention, the greatest handicap of the blind person is that he is one of a comparatively small community, the proportion in this country being less than one-tenth of one per cent. If blindness were so common that in Britain there were a million or so persons suffering from this disability, scores of inventors and manufacturing firms would turn their attention to the production of apparatus calculated to reduce the difficulties caused by blindness.

As things are, however, it is practically true to say that the commercial world has paid no attention to inventions for the blind, and that it has been left to charitable institutions and to philanthropists to develop the machines and apparatus that are at present available.

The National Institute for the Blind, of which I have the honour to be president, has established an inventions and research committee, which has done much useful work in connection with the production of mechanical aids to the blind and the adaptation of existing apparatus for their use.

In a short article it is impossible to deal with the many scores of different inventions that have been and are of assistance to blind people, and I shall, therefore, confine my attention to a few different subjects which have come under the notice of this committee, and which illustrate the variety of its work.

To Use Phonographs

Many people are familiar with the machine system of embossed dots by which blind people are able to read by touch.

So great are the advantages of this system that it is practically universal in the civilized world. It has, however, one serious disadvantage, namely, that those who lose their sight in adult life do not readily attain the proficiency in reading as long as the actual work of reading with the finger-tips involves a mental strain much of the pleasure that can be derived from books is nullified.

During the past two or three years many experiments have been made to discover if it is not possible to utilize various kinds of talking machines for reading aloud to blind people.

The difficulties to be overcome are chiefly in connection with cost of production. This is an instance in which the difficulty of small numbers makes itself apparent, for the scarcity of blind people who could afford to take advantage of such an invention would preclude the possibility of massed production and necessitate distribution through a circulating library.

I do not want to lead people to believe that any complete solution of these difficulties is in sight, but it is not improbable that in the course of time a blind person may be able to join a library from which he could obtain records which will read his book aloud to him.

Faster Braille Reading

Much time and attention has been devoted to the subject of improving both the Braille print itself and the method of producing it.

The National Institute for the Blind has the most up-to-date factory for this purpose in the world. When I make the statement that a complete page of Braille containing 200 words on each side can be printed with one closing of the press and that the dots on one side are so spaced as to be less than one-sixteenth of an inch from the dots on the other side, I am not overstating the case. The subject of helping blind people by mechanical aids to overcome their very great difficulties.

Lockport Victorious In Big Baseball Tournament At Orland

The baseball tournament at Orland, Sunday, drew a crowd of 1100 enthusiastic baseball fans. The opening game started at 12:30 between Orland and Frankfort, and resulted in the defeat of Frankfort by a score of 7 to 3. Lockport next played Tinley Park, and defeated the latter by 3 to 2. The final game was played between Lockport and Orland, resulting in the defeat of the latter by 7 to 0.

All teams were strong, and good playing stirred up much interest in the games. Lockport carried off the $150 purse, which was divided between the various teams, as was done at Frankfort, when the first tournament was held. Umpire O'Neill, of Joliet, was on the job, and his decisions were always accepted as given.

Burglars Visit Henry Stellwagen Garage At Mokena Mon.

Burglars attempted to rob the Henry Stellwagen garage Monday night, but were frightened away by Hugh Deadmore who came to the garage at midnight to put in his car. Mr. Deadmore works in Joliet, and goes to and from his work in his auto, which he keeps at the garage mentioned. Upon stopping his car to open the garage door, he discovered that the lock had been broken off the door of Mr. Stellwagen's private garage, and that demountable rim was standing near the door. Upon entering the main garage, he found a five-gallon gasoline can standing on the floor with a hose attached to it. Evidently the burglars had attempted to syphon gas from another car. Mr. Deadmore notified Mr. Stellwagen of what he had found, and, upon further investigation, it was found that tools belonging to Mr. Stellwagen's car were taken. The car of Paul Rinke, Jr. had also been jacked up with a jack taken from the car and one of the rear tires taken off and carried away. No trace was found of the robbers.

BIG BASE BALL TOURNAMENT AT TINLEY PARK SUN.

Tinley Park is going to hold the third baseball tournament to be given by ball teams in this section. Tinley will stage their tournament next Sunday, weather permitting. Big preparations are being made for the event.

The teams which will play will be Tinley Park, Orland, Frankfort and Monee. Tinley Park will have their old reliable lineup, consisting of the Ungers, Thomases, Ford and Koveleski. The opening game will start at 12 noon sharp. There will be three games. A purse of $150 will be awarded. A brass band has been engaged to furnish the music.

The tournament will be held under the auspices of the local Bull Frog team, on the Fulton diamond.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. Walker

EDISON QUESTIONS

THOMAS A. EDISON, who has a very low opinion of the intellectuality of the average college student, has come out with a new set of questions, historical, political, geographical and scientific.

The Wizard is much too honest a man for anybody to suggest that he deliberately got up these posers for the purpose of humiliating his fellow citizens.

So it may be admitted that the wide ground covered by the queries represents his own interest in all sorts of subjects having to do with human activities.

But it is doubtful whether or not ability to answer correctly all or most of these questions could be any test of the intelligence of anybody, in college or out of it. For intelligence and knowledge are very different things.

It was once said of a distinguished man that he had a larger store of useless knowledge than anybody of his time. Mr. Edison would not admit that any knowledge could be useless.

In fact he seems to take the attitude of the late Lord Macaulay who was in the habit of qualifying a statement as to something that nobody knew anything about but himself, by saying "as every schoolboy knows." As a result "Macaulay's Schoolboy" became the proper definition of an infant prodigy.

Lord Kelvin was one of the most distinguished men of science of his time. Addressing his students at Glasgow University on one occasion he said that the great thing about the higher mathematics was that it could be of no possible use to anybody.

Yet the fact that Kelvin and a couple of his friends, one in America and another in Europe, used to amuse themselves with these useless investigations, is, in a way, an argument in favor of Mr. Edison. It goes to show that certain things are worth while even if no direct advantage is to be derived from them.

Old-fashioned schoolmasters were great believers in the importance of facts, and a great part of their time was passed in getting them into the minds of the young.

But the modern schoolmaster goes about his business in a different way. He does not try to teach facts. He does try to teach general principles.

It is like the difference between the old geography and the new.

The old dealt with the names of places, rivers, mountains and so on. The new deals with the effect of the physical shape of the earth's surface on the races scattered over it.

A well-trained lawyer is not one who carries all the cases around with him in his head. But he does know how to put his hand on anything he wants.

In the same way it is more important to be able to get at your facts than to know them.

LYRICS OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE LITTLE VALLEYS.

THE little valleys lie so far
From where the busy cities are
That men may live and men may die
And never find them where they lie,
The little valleys near the sky.

Shut in by plain and sturdy hills
That feed the grasses with their rills,
The little valleys do not seem
A part of all life's roaring stream—
But just a landscape and a dream.

A few green acres, that is all.
The mountains like a garden wall
In quiet peace to shut them in,
To shut away the dirt, the din,
And all the world of noisy sin.

And, oh, I wish that weary feet
Could find the little valleys sweet!
And, oh, I wish the weary heart
That feels the bruises of the mart
Could find this little world apart!

"God's gardens," so I call the vales
Up yonder by the mountain trails;
And you who cry for heaven's aid
You will not find it, I'm afraid,
Where man his busy world has made.

You must come tramping over hills,
Come follow singing whip-poor-wills,
Must journey long and clamber high
To where God's hidden gardens lie—
The little valleys near the sky.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

NEED FOR NURSES

THERE are not enough trained nurses to meet the demand. On the other hand nurses are saying that they cannot make both ends meet unless their pay is increased. Many women who might take up the work are deterred because of this fact.

To meet this, the alumni societies of the training schools are combining with a view to settle on a proper advance. The new rate of pay would be $6 a day for 12-hour periods, and $50 a week for contagious cases.

Nurses are going to be asked for by communities to do public work. District visiting and prenatal care at the expense of the community, where circumstances demand, will be put into the hands of trained nurses. It will be worth doing, and sure to appeal to certain types of women who like nursing, but who do not care for private or hospital work.

A girl who wants to study for this profession should select her hospital with care. She will have to expect to do hard and disagreeable work. But in a number of institutions the eight-hour schedule is being adhered to, more salary is being paid, and other matters that have given rise to discontent are being improved.

A trained nurse is one of the most important members of the community. There is now a great need for more of her. Most hospitals accept only college-bred women, and no women without the equivalent of a high school training will be accepted. If you who read this feel a call for nursing, get the address of a good hospital, write to the matron of nurses there, and follow her directions. You cannot enter upon a finer walk of life.

EVERYDAY SALADS.

A MOST acceptable salad may be made of a few leftovers if the combination is good. Many a good bit of food is thrown away for lack of knowing how to use it wisely.

Potato and Corn Salad.

Take a pint or less of cold boiled potatoes cut in half-inch cubes, add one cupful of green corn cooked on the cob, a bit of chopped green pepper if at hand, a little scraped onion to give it zest and enough well seasoned dressing to moisten, adding salt and pepper to season.

Hot Corn and Pepper Salad.
Take a pint of sweet corn (fresh) and just cut from the cob. Shred or mince one green pepper and cook in a little butter until well softened, add the green corn and more butter, stirring and mixing well over the fire. Season with salt, pepper and cayenne and serve piping hot. It is wise to double this recipe if the family is at all fond of corn for there is never a kernel left.

Crisp Lettuce With Peanuts.
Wash a bunch or two of tender head lettuce, drain and dry thoroughly, arrange on individual plates and sprinkle with fresh crisp peanuts that have been crushed by rolling with the rolling pin until like coarse crumbs. Serve with a French dressing passed at the table or with a good boiled dressing. Adding the dressing to the lettuce, if it stands any length of time, wilts it and destroys its attractiveness.

Mushroom Catsup.

Put mushrooms into a stone crock, covering with a layer of salt as each layer of mushrooms is added. Let stand two days, stirring occasionally, then drain them and put through a sieve. To each quart of mushroom puree add three blades of mace, one tablespoonful of peppercorns, one-half tablespoonful of ginger, the same of allspice and, if needed, salt. Cook for half an hour, then add the spices and cook 20 minutes. Bottle and seal as any catsup. This makes a very nice savory to add to meats, sauces and various dishes.

The Illinois department of agriculture, division of foods, and dairies, is urging all apple growers and dealers to acquaint themselves at once with the apple law, which went into effect in Illinois on September 1, 1921. "So many of its provisions are new in Illinois that no apple man can afford to postpone a thorough study of it," says J. L. McLaughlin, superintendent of the division.

The first effectual move in its efforts to change its rules to make them harmonize with the Capper-Thacher bill, which is to regulate grain exchanges, was made by the Chicago Board of Trade. By a vote of 573 to 41, the board decided to abolish its rule providing for trading in "indemnities," also known as "bids and offers," by the grain trade. The public knows them as "puts and calls," that being the name under which they went for nearly 50 years. Operations are to be discontinued October 1.

Dr. W. A. Stoker of Centralia has been named to succeed Dr. Eugene Cohn as superintendent of the Kankakee state hospital, according to Fred Whipple, fiscal supervisor of the department of welfare. Doctor Stoker was formerly superintendent of the Anna state hospital at Anna, and before coming to Illinois was superintendent of a similar institution in Indiana. Dr. Eugene Cohn, superintendent of the Kankakee state hospital, resigned, effective October 15, says a dispatch from Kankakee.

Organization of three new state banks in Chicago during the last month brought the total number of state banks in Illinois up to an even 1,400, according to a report by the state auditor. Chicago now has 153 state banks and Cook county outside of Chicago 66, leaving 1,181 in the other 101 counties. Seven state banks, four in Chicago and one each in Cicero, East St. Louis and Maywood, increased their capital stock during the month. In most instances the capital was more than doubled. Two state banks were liquidated and became national banks.

With a membership of 677, McLean county, Illinois, led the country in county memberships in the United States Grain Growers, Inc., the newly organized farmer-owned marketing company, according to an announcement. Illinois has only four counties organized, but ranks second among the states in membership. The four Illinois counties in the new farmers' marketing corporation are LaSalle, McLean, Douglas and DeKalb. In some localities in the state workers report that between 70 and 90 per cent of the grain land owners have signed contracts. Contracts from nearly 350 elevators in the United States have been signed. In LaSalle and McLean counties about 50 elevators have joined the new organization. The total membership of grain growers is nearly 10,000.

All property in Lake Forest, Waukegan and Highland Park will be assessed at a valuation 30 per cent higher beginning this fall, as the result of action by the Lake County board of review at Waukegan making valid a ruling made in 1919. Many millionaire estate owners are expected to protest.

The Ottawa city council has decided to reduce the corporate limits. Officials say the large amount of territory costs too much for maintenance of bridges and streets.

A branch of the Contractors and Builders' association has been formed in Paris. The object is to combat unjust demands of organized labor and furnish workmen's compensation insurance to members at reduced rates.

State highway officials on October 4 will open bids on the greatest amount of road and bridge construction work Illinois has ever offered to contractors at any one time. The offering includes 180 miles of paving in 18 different counties; 73 miles of heavy grading preparatory to paving in ten counties, and 69 bridges in 14 counties.

Mrs. Frances Balchunas of Aurora was accused by her two daughters, Helen, seventeen, and Frances, fourteen, of sacrificing her husband for the love of a boarder ten years younger than herself. The three hundred million-bushel corn crop of Illinois this year will be shucked for 2½ and 3 cents a bushel, according to a report received from six representative counties in the state by the Sangamon county farm bureau. Last year corn shuckers were paid 4 and 5 cents for shucking. The reduced price will be partly offset by better grade of corn this year, it is said. The average day's shucking is about 100 bushels.

More than 250 miles of Illinois highways have been paved this year, according to a report by the division of highways. This brings the completed mileage up to more than 1,365 miles, leaving approximately 200 miles of the immediate paving program to be finished. The total mileage completed to date is: Federal aid, 596; state bond, 20; state aid, 400; county, 349; total, 1,365.

That part of the world above the tropic of Cancer, which includes the north temperate zone, contains no other known plot of ground equal the record of the 18 acres of Richland county, near Olney, according to Dr. Robert Ridgway, its owner. "Bird Haven," he says, "boasts a greater variety of trees than any other 18 acres in that vast expanse. Nearest that record," Dr. Ridgway said, "is that of a much larger area in Japan, near Sapporo, central Yezo, where 62 kinds of trees are growing." Bird Haven, Dr. Ridgway's records show, has 70 native species and varieties "growing naturally."

A decided decrease in the number of cases of infantile paralysis in Illinois is shown in the reports to the state department of public health. During last week but 16 cases were reported to the department as against 25 for the week preceding. One of these was in Harriestown township, Macon county. During the week, 158 cases of diphtheria were reported to the state department of public health, of which 85 were from Chicago and three from Decatur. Springfield reported five of the 99 cases of scarlet fever and Chicago 43. Of typhoid fever, there were 51 cases, of which Chicago reported nine, and 80 cases of pneumonia, of which Chicago reported 71.

Bombings, threats to kill, and seizure of equipment forced the Farmers' Milk Producing company out of existence and are responsible for the high price of milk, William C. Blaskie, head of the late organization, told State's Attorney Crowe at Chicago. Forty farmers around Dundee, Barrington, Elgin and nearby towns formed the Farmers' Milk Producing company. They claim they were forced by too heavy assessments on sales out of the Milk Producers' Marketing company, which, it is charged, is a party to the so-called "trust" of unions, distributors and marketing companies. After the cut in the price of milk, from 14 to 12 cents a quart, bombs broke windows of buildings holding farmers' milk. Then followed threats, and a writ of replevin was obtained by the bottle exchange against the organization. The last step, putting sulphuric acid and buttermilk tablets in farmers' cans forced them to file a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. "The farmers and the public are being cheated," Blaskie declared. "Milk can be sold at a profit at 10 cents."

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

Edmund, S.C.—"I was run down with nervousness and female trouble and suffered every month.

I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicine, but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book that was thrown in my door, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. I have not paper enough to tell you how much it has done for me and for my friends. You may print this letter if you wish."

—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S.C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which we have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

NOT A CASE FOR SURGEON

Ambitious Medical Student Was Slightly Too Precipitate in Jumping to His Conclusions.

"After the first crash," imparted the first hospital surgeon to the second, "I ran over to where it lay on the pavement; and when I raised it up, I saw at once that its ribs were smashed, while a gaping hole was torn in its—"

"Pardon me, doctor," broke in the medical student, who had caught these words as he was about to pass by into the consumptive ward, "but if you have no objections, I'd like to take a few notes on that accident case."

He pulled his notebook from his pocket. "Was the case a child?"

"No," the surgeon informed him to his embarrassment. "I was speaking of my umbrella."—Science and Invention.

BLIND TO TEACH BLIND

Robert Pruitt was stricken blind on his tenth birthday, while at play with a number of Chinese schoolboys in the American mission compound at Hwanghsien, Shantung province, where he was born. A blow on the head produced paralysis of the optic nerves. That was 13 years ago. Today as a bachelor of arts of Harvard, where he graduated recently, Mr. Pruitt is returning to China with a plan to establish a school for the blind in connection with the Chinese college at Hwanghsien. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Pruitt, formerly of Youngstown, Ohio, have been stationed in Hwanghsien for many years.

DR. ROBERT J. FORMAD

From a poor immigrant youth who arrived in America from Russia in 1883, Dr. Robert J. Formad has become one of the country's foremost pathologists. His first position was as assistant in the University of Pennsylvania with a salary of $100 a year while he was working his way through school. He is now recognized as the leading pathologist in the Department of Agriculture, being an expert on rabid animals.

Every 24 hours this still, operated by Orientals, produced 100 gallons of moonshine. It was hidden in the hills above Seattle, Wash., and was reached through a half-mile underground tunnel. The distillery was located with bloodhounds and raided by Sheriff Starwich, here shown with one of the distillers.

25,000 BOTTLES SOLD IN NEW YORK

Biggest Thing of Kind Ever Seen in That State, Declares Big Wholesaler.

The fact that 25,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the state of New York since its introduction there less than one year ago, is a big business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the entire East, for nothing like it has ever happened before. It breaks all records.

Mr. George B. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Snow Company, the well-known wholesale druggists, with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories alone at the phenomenal rate of approximately 500,000 bottles a year.

"If the present rate continues," said Mr. Evans, "this state alone will probably require considerably over 750,000 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this statement."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

is greatly relieved by constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.

Catch of Cod in Norway.

The catch of cod in Norway for the season just ended is greater than in any one of the preceding four years. However, the value of the catch was about 22,000,000 crowns, as compared with a value of 45,000,000 crowns for the 1920 season. The total number of fish caught in 1921 was 39,000,000; the 1920 catch totaled 38,000,000. The selling price is considerably lower and the high cost of equipment and oils makes the profit less than average. The operating expenses were at the same level as during the war.

Shall Old Man Gloom glare at you all winter from the dirty, dingy, streaked and unsanitary walls of your home?

We know what your answer will be and to secure these satisfying results you have only to use

Alabastine

Instead of Wallpaper, Paint or Kalsomine

Alabastine is a dry powder packed in five-pound packages in white and a variety of beautiful colors ready to use by mixing with pure cold water, with full directions on every package.

Alabastine has been on the market for forty years, is a household word in every civilized country in the world. If unable to secure the services of a painter or decorator you can apply Alabastine yourself.

Important to Know

To secure Alabastine results you must get Alabastine; it is necessary to see that the package has the word "Alabastine" and the cross and circle printed in red.

When employing the services of a painter ask him to bring the Alabastine in unbroken packages and mixed on the job. This he will be glad to do to convince you that he is giving you what you desire and pay for.

Or would you prefer walls that radiate cheer and hospitality, modernize your home and conduce to health, happiness and the pride of living?

Alabastine Over Painted Walls

Have you had the experience after going to considerable expense to paint your walls, on the theory that they would be washable the same as your woodwork, of finding that after washing them they were grimy, streaked and unsatisfactory? Have you hesitated at the expense of again repainting them?

If the paint is solid on the wall and not scaling, go over it with a coat of Alabastine and be pleasantly surprised as to effects produced and saving effected. Alabastine may even be used over old soiled wallpaper that is firm on the wall not printed in aniline dyes or with raised figures.

You Can Always Get Alabastine

There is hardly a town where Alabastine is not carried in stock by dealers who carry paints. If you do not find it and are offered something else claimed to be just as good, write us and we will tell you how to easily secure Alabastine.

Sample card of tints furnished by dealers or write to us direct.

The patients are getting along nicely at latest reports.

Frankfort Humane Society Officer Shoots Mule; Value Disputed

Much interest is being taken as to the outcome of the suit which has been brought against Levi Doty, Frankfort Humane Society Officer, by Mr. Sherman, one of the Lincoln highway contractors, for the recovery of $100, which Mr. Sherman claims was the value of a mule which Mr. Doty shot.

According to the story told, the animal in question was struck by an auto, and one of its hind legs was very badly injured, so that the mule could not walk on it. The animal was unable to get on its feet, as it appeared to be paralyzed.

Complaint was made to Mr. Doty that the mule was suffering and ought to be taken care of. Mr. Doty investigated, and found the mule at Folker's barn. He took the matter up with Mr. Sherman, who promised to see that the animal was taken care of. He engaged Dr. J. L. McEwan to treat the mule. Reports again were made to Mr. Doty that the animal was being abused. Mr. Doty again took up the matter, and found the mule in a very bad shape. It had laid so long with its shoes on that a gum boil had been worn so that the bone was exposed.

Mr. Doty called Dr. F. McLaren, veterinarian, of Joliet. He also called five men of the neighborhood, and they went to see the mule again. The animal was unable to get on its feet, and appeared to be suffering greatly. Mr. Doty shot the animal to end its suffering.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Sherman, the owner, brought suit against Mr. Doty for $100, which he claimed the mule was worth. The case came up in the late Justice Leppa's court. Mr. Sherman testified he would not have taken $100 for the mule. Dr. McLaren testified that he would consider the reasonable cash value of the mule at $100. When the five men who were with Mr. Doty were called, they testified that the mule was worthless. Two witnesses testified that the mule was cruelly beaten with boards and pulled by the tail to get it on its feet, and when it was raised on its feet, it could not walk. They went into details of the cruelty they charged was inflicted on the animal. In his testimony Mr. Doty told how he was called on the case, and the condition he found the mule in.

Mr. Doty paid $6.00 to have Dr. McLaren, a veterinarian, pass on the mule rather than see him suffer any longer.

To back up Mr. Doty's statement and that of the five men with him that the mule was found in a bad state, Dr. McLaren, of Joliet, veterinarian, made the following statement:

"I found said mule in a very bad state of mortification, and as this mule was unable to get upon his feet, I am pleased to see Mr. Doty put his him out of his misery."

The case was decided in favor of Mr. Sherman by the late Justice Leppa, whereupon Mr. Doty appealed the case to the Circuit Court. How soon the case will come up is not known, but much speculation as to the outcome of it is being manifested.

A STORY OF THE BUILDERS OF DEMOCRACY

BY IRVING BACHELLER

THE SLAVES.

Synopsis.—Samson and Sarah Traylor, with their two children, Josiah and Betsey, travel by wagon from their home in Vergennes, Vt., to the West, the land of plenty. Their destination is the Country of the Sangamon, in Illinois. At Niagara Falls they meet John McNeil, who also decides to go to the Sangamon country. Sarah's ministrations save the life of Harry Needles, in the last stages of fever, and he accompanies the Trayers. They reach New Salem, Illinois, and are welcomed by young Abe Lincoln. Jack Kelso and his pretty daughter Bim, sixteen years of age, and others. Samson decides to stay and raises his cabin. Led by Jack Armstrong, rowdies make trouble. Lincoln thrashes Armstrong. Harry Needles strikes Bim McNeil. Harry is attacked by McNeil and his gang, and Bim drives them off with a shotgun. McNeil is markedly attentive to Ann Rutledge. Lincoln is in love with Ann, but has never had enough courage to tell her so. Harry loves Bim.

CHAPTER V—Continued.

John McNeil kissed Ann Rutledge that evening and was most attentive to her, and the women were saying that the two had fallen in love with each other.

"See how she looks at him," one of them whispered.

"Well, it's just the way he looks at her," the other answered.

At the first pause in the merriment Kelso stood on a chair, and then silence fell upon the little company.

"My good neighbors," he began, "we are here to rejoice that new friends have come to us and that a new home is born in our midst. We bid them welcome. They are big-hearted, big-hearted folks. No man has grown large who has not at one time or another had his feet in the soil and felt its magic power going up into his blood and bone and sinew. Here is a wonderful soil and the inspiration of wide horizons: here are broad and fertile fields. Where the corn grows high you can grow statesmen. It may be that out of one of these little cabins a man will come to carry the torch of Liberty and Justice so high that its light will shine into every dark place. So let no one despise the cabin—humble as it is. Samson and Sarah Traylor, I welcome and congratulate you. Whatever may come, you can find no better friends than these, and of this you may be sure, no child of the prairies will ever go about with a hand organ and a monkey. Our friend, Honest Abe, is one of the few rich men in this neighborhood. Among his assets are 'Kirkham's Grammar,' 'The Pilgrim's Progress,' 'Othello's Speech to the Senate,' 'Marc Anthony's Address' and a part of 'Webster's Reply to Hayne.' A man came along the other day and sold him a barrel of rubbish for two bits. In it he found a volume of 'Blackstone's Commentaries.' Old Blackstone challenged him to a wrestle and Abe has grappled with him. I reckon he'll take his measure as easily as he took Jack Armstrong's. Lately he has got possession of a noble asset. It is 'The Cotter's Saturday Night,' by Robert Burns. I propose to ask him to let us share his enjoyment of this treasure."

Abe, who had been sitting with his legs doubled beneath him on a buffalo skin, between Joe and Betsey Traylor, rose and said:

"Mr. Kelso's remarks, especially the part which applied to me, remind me of the story of the prosperous grocer of Joliet. One Saturday night he and his boys were busy selling sausage. Suddenly in came a man with whom he had quarreled and laid two dead cats on the counter.

"There," said he, "this makes seven today. I'll call Monday and get my money."

"We were doing a good business here making fun. It seems a pity to ruin it and throw suspicion on the quality of the goods by throwing a cat on the counter."

This raised a storm of merriment, after which he recited the poem of Burns, with keen appreciation of its quality. Samson repeatedly writes of his gift for interpretation, especially of the comic, and now and then lays particular stress on his power of mimicry.

John Cameron sang "The Sword of Bunker Hill" and "Forty Years Ago, Tom." Samson played while the older people danced until midnight. Then, after noisy farewells, men, women and children started in the moonlit road toward the village. Ann Rutledge had Abe on one arm and John McNeil on the other.

CHAPTER VI.

Which Describes the Lonely Life in a Prairie Cabin and a Stirring Adventure on the Underground Railroad About the Time It Began Operations.

When Samson paid Mr. Gollaher, a "detector" came with the latter to look at the money before it was accepted. There were many counterfeiters and bills good only at a certain discount of face value going about those days and the detector was in great request. Directly after moving in, Samson dug a well and lined it with a hollow log. He bought tools and another team and then he and Harry began their fall plowing. Day after day for weeks they paced with their turning furrows until a hundred acres, stretching half a mile to the west and well to the north of the house, were black with them. Fever and ague descended upon the little home in the early winter.

In a letter to her brother, dated January 4th, 1832, Sarah writes:

"We have been longing for news from home, but not a word has come from you. It don't seem as if we could stand it unless we hear from you or some of the folks once in a while. We are not dead just because we are a thousand miles away. We want to hear from you. Please write and let us know how father and mother are and all the news. We have all been sick with the fever and ague. It is a beautiful country and the soil is very rich, but there is some sickness. Samson and I were both sick at the same time. I never knew Samson to give up before. He couldn't go on, his head ached so. Little Joe helped me get the fire started and brought some water and waited on us. Harry Needles had gone away to Springfield for Mr. Offutt with a drove of hogs. Two other boys are with him. He is going to buy a new suit. He is a very proud boy. Joe and Betsey got back with the doctor at nine. That night Abe Lincoln came and sat up with us and gave us our medicine and kept the fire going. It was comical to see him lying beside Joe in his trundle bed, with his long legs sticking over the end of it and his feet standing on the floor about a yard from the bed. He was spread all over the place. He talked about religion and his views would shock most of our friends in the East. He doesn't believe in the kind of Heaven that the ministers talk about or any eternal hell. He says that nobody knows anything about the hereafter, except that God is a kind and forgiving father and that all men are His children. He says that we can only serve God by serving each other. He seems to think that every man, good or bad, black or white, rich or poor, is his brother. He thinks that Henry Clay, next to Daniel Webster, is the greatest man in the country. He is studying hard. Expects to go out and make speeches for Clay next summer. He is quite severe in his talk against General Jackson. He and Samson agree in politics and religion. They are a good deal alike. He is very fond of Samson and Harry—calls them his partners. We love this big awkward giant. His feet are set in the straight way and we think that he is going to make his mark in the world.

"You said you would come out next spring to look about. Please don't disappoint us. I think it would almost break my heart. I am counting the days. Don't be afraid of fever and ague. Sapington's pills cure it in three or four days. I would take the steamboat at Pittsburg, the roads in Ohio and Indiana are so bad. You can get a steamer up the Illinois river at Alton and get off at Beardstown and drive across country. If we knew when you were coming Samson or Abe would meet you. Give our love to all the folks and friends.

"Yours affectionately,
"Sarah and Samson."

It had been a cold winter and not easy to keep comfortable in the little house. In the worst weather Samson had used to get up at night to keep the fire going. Late in January a wind from the southeast melted the snow and warmed the air of the midlands so that, for a week or so, it seemed as if spring were come. One night of this week Sambo awoke the family with his barking. A strong wind was rushing across the plains and roaring over the cabin and wailing in its chimney. Suddenly there was a rap on its door. When Samson opened it he saw in the moonlight a young colored man and woman standing near the doorstep.

"Is dis Mistah Traylor?" the young man asked.

"It is," said Samson. "What can I do for you?"

"Mas'r, de good Lord done fetched us here to ask you fo' help," said the negro. "We be nigh wone out with cold an' hungah, suh, 'died we be."

Samson asked them in and put wood on the fire, and Sarah got up and made some hot tea and brought food from the cupboard and gave it to the strangers, who sat shivering in the firelight. They were a good-looking pair, the young woman being almost white. They were man and wife. The latter stopped eating and moaned and shook with emotion as her husband told their story. Their master had died the year before and they had been brought to St. Louis to be sold in the slave market. There they had escaped by night and gone to the house of an old friend of their former owner who lived north of the city on the river shore. He had taken pity on them and brought them across the Mississippi and started them on the north road with a letter to Elijah Lovejoy of Alton and a supply of food. Since then they had been hiding days in the swamps and thickets and had traveled by night. Mr. Lovejoy had sent them to Erastus Wright of Springfield, and Mr. Wright had given them the name of Samson Traylor and the location of his cabin. From there they were bound for the house of John Peasley, in Hopedale, Tazewell county.

Lovejoy had asked them to keep the letter with which they had begun their travels. The letter stated that their late master had often expressed his purpose of leaving them their freedom when he should pass away. He had left no will and since his death the two had fallen into the hands of his nephew, a despotic, violent young drunkard of the name of Biggs. Samson was so moved by their story that he hitched up his horses and put some hay in the wagon box and made off with the fugitives up the road to the north in the night. When daylight came he covered them with hay. About eight o'clock he came to a frame house and barn, the latter being of unusual size for that time and country. Above the door of the barn was a board which bore the stenciled legend: "John Peasley, Orwell Farm."

As Samson drew near the house he observed a man working on the roof of a woodshed. Something familiar in his look held the eye of the New Salem man. In half a moment he recognized the face of Henry Brimstead. It was now a cheerful face. Brimstead came down from the ladder and they shook hands.

"Good land o' Goshen! How did you get here?" Samson asked. Brimstead answered:

"Through the help of a feller that looks like you an' the grit of a pair o' horses. Come down this road early in September on my way to the land o' plenty. Found Peasley here. Couldn't help it. Saw his name on the barn. Used to go to school with him in Orwell. He offered to sell me some land with a house on it an' trust me for his pay. I liked the looks o' the country and so I didn't go no further. I was goin' to write you a letter, but I hain't got around to it yet. Ain't forgot what you done for us, I can tell ye that."

"Well, this looks better than the send plains—a lot better—and you look better than the flea farmer back in York state. How are the children?"

"Fat an' happy an' well dressed. Mrs. Peasley has been a mother to 'em an' her sister is goin' to be a wife to me." He came close to Samson and added in a confidential tone: "Say, if I was any happier I'd be scairt. I'm like I was when I got over the toothache—so scairt for fear it would come back I was kind o' miserable."

Mr. Peasley came out of the door. He was a big, full-bearded, jovial man. "I've got a small load o' hay for you," said Samson.

"I was expecting it, though I supposed 'twould be walkin'—in the dark o' night," Peasley answered. "Drive in on the barn floor."

When Samson had driven into the barn its doors were closed and the negroes were called from their place of hiding. Samson writes:

"I never realized what a blessing it is to be free until I saw that scared man and woman crawling out from under the dusty hay and shaking themselves like a pair of dogs. The weather was not cold or I guess they would have been frozen. They knelt together on the barn floor and the woman prayed for God's protection through the day. Peasley brought food for them and stowed them away on the top of his haymow with a pair of buffalo skins. I suppose they got some sleep there. I went into the house to breakfast and while I ate Brimstead told me about his trip. His children were there. They looked clean and decent. He lived in a log cabin a little further up the road. Mrs. Peasley's sister waited on me. She is a fat and cheerful looking lady, very light complexioned. Her hair is red—like tomato ketchup. Looks to me a likely, stout-armed, good-hearted woman who can do a lot of hard work. She can see a joke and has an answer handy every time."

For details of the remainder of the historic visit of Samson Traylor to the home of John Peasley we are indebted to a letter from John to his brother Charles, dated February 21, 1832. In this he says:

"We had gone out to the barn and Brimstead and I were helping Mr. Traylor hitch up his horses. All of a sudden two men came riding up the road at a fast trot and turned in and come straight toward us and pulled up by the wagon. One of them was a slim, red-cheeked young feller about twenty-three years old. He wore top boots and spurs and a broad-brimmed black hat and gloves and a fur waistcoat and putty linen. He looked at the tires of the wagon and said: 'That's the one we've followed.'

"Which o' you is Samson Traylor?" he asked.

"I am," said Traylor.

"The young feller jumped off his horse and tied him to the fence. Then he went up to Traylor and said:

"'What did you do with my niggers, you dirty sucker?'
"Men from Missouri hated the Illinois folks them days and called 'em Suckers."

"Hain't you a little reckless, young feller?" Traylor said, as cool as a cucumber. He stood up nigh the barn door, which Brimstead had closed after we backed the wagon out.

"The young feller stepped close to the New Salem man and raised his whip for a blow. Quick as lightning Traylor grabbed him and threw him ag'in the barn door, keewack! He hit so hard the boards bent and the whole barn roared and trembled. The other feller tried to get his pistol out of its holster, but Brimstead, who stood beside him, grabbed it, and I got his boss by the bits and we both held on. The young feller lay on the ground shakin' as if he had the ague. Ye never see a man so spyt in a second. Traylor picked him up. His right arm was broke and his face and shoulder bruised some. Yed a thought a steam engine had blowed up while he was puttin' wood in it. He was kind o' limp and the mad had leaked out o' him."

"I reckon I better find a doctor," he says.

"You get into my wagon and I'll take ye to a good one," says Traylor.

"Just then Stephen Nuckles, the circuit minister, rode in with the big bloodhound that follows him around."

"The other slave had got off his horse in the scrimmage. Traylor started for him. The slave began to back away and suddenly broke into a run. The big dog took after him with a kind of a lion roar. We all began yelling at the dog. We made more noise than you'd hear at the end of a horse race. It scairt the young feller. He put on more steam and went up the ladder to the roof of the woodshed like a chased weasel. The dog stood barkin' as if he had treed a bear. Traylor grabbed the ladder and pulled it down."

"You stay there till I get away an' you'll be safe," said he.

"The man looked down and swore and shook his fist and threatened us with the law."

"Mr. Nuckles rode close to the woodshed and looked up at him."

"My brother, I fear you be not a Christian," he said.

"He swore at the minister. 'That settled him. I reckon he better stay thar till he gets a little o' God's grace in his soul,' says the minister."

"Then he says to the dog: 'Ponto, you keep 'im right thar.'

"The dog appeared to understand what was expected of him."

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

LEAD WORLD IN NUMBER.

The Boy Scouts of America is at present showing the highest membership record since the organization of the movement eleven and one-half years ago. It numbers at present almost half a million men and boys actively engaged in scouting, a number larger, according to the latest figures available from the International Scout bureau at London, than the total membership of scouts in all the rest of the world put together.

The International Scout bureau at London has compiled the following statistical record of scout membership throughout the world, among countries which are affiliated with the bureau. There are several other active associations which are not yet affiliated and whose numbers are therefore not at present available. These unaffiliated countries are Armenia, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, China, Greece, Japan, Panama, Roumania and Uruguay.

A SCOUT IS BRAVE.

He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear, and to stand up for the right against the coaxings of friends or the jeers or threats of enemies, and defeat does not down him, and somebody has expressed pretty much the same idea in the following poem.

The test of a man is the fight he makes.
The grit that he daily shows:
The way he stands on his feet and takes
Late's numerous bumps and blows.
A coward can smile when there's naught to fear,
When nothing his progress bars.
But it takes a man to stand up and cheer
While some other fellow stars.

It isn't the victory, after all.
But the fight that a brother makes:
The man who, driven against the wall,
Still stands up erect and takes
The blows of fate with his head held high,
Bleeding, and bruised, and pale,
Is the man who'll win in the by and by,
For he isn't afraid to fail.

It's the bumps you get, and the joits you get,
And the shocks that your courage stands,
The hours of sorrow and vain regret,
The prize that escapes your hands.
That test your mettle and prove your worth:
It isn't the blows you deal,
But the blows you take on the good old earth.
That shows if your stuff is real.

BOY SCOUT CAMP UNDER WAY.

The big scout camp in the Interstate park in New York and New Jersey is opened again for the season. It is expected that approximately 2,000 scouts will be the daily count in this enormous camp.

There will be a nine weeks' camping season which will probably accommodate more than 6,000 boys. One of the most interesting features of the camp will be the museum in charge of "Uncle Benny," Hyde who will again manage the Museum, nature study work of the entire camp. A friend of the movement has contributed a thousand dollars to further the nature instruction in order to "coax, hire or transport bodily" the best available scientific experts. The boys privileged to participate in this huge and happy camp, whose law is scout law and whose program is the scout program, will have a never-to-be-forgotten experience.

TEACH ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

Governor Grosbeck of Michigan recently recommended that every child in Detroit should be taught how to induce artificial respiration. Boy scouts, who were already expert in the Schaefer methods and others who were given thorough special instruction, were in turn, placed in charge of classes in artificial respiration held in the different schools of the city.

GET FIVE ACRES FOR PRESENT.

A troop in East Auburn, Cal., has recently been made the happy recipient of a five-acre tract of land. The boys are building log cabins, one for each patrol and an extra large cabin big enough to hold a hundred scouts. There is a fine spring on the land and the troop is planning to utilize its water supply by building a large bathing camp. They aren't stingy with their blessings either. They have issued an invitation to any scouts who want to come up and enjoy their camp.

"Ah!" sighed the presiding elder, "why do so few parents nowadays sing to their children?"

HER BEST-LOVED FROCK BELONGS TO AFTERNOON

ALWAYS a volume could be written about some frocks—as about hats. The story is never all told until the season is over and gone—and before that time arrives, fashion has underway a sequel to follow. The best-loved of gowns is that one which makes a success of its wearer's afternoons. There is a long list of fabrics at hand to choose from including several crepe weaves, duvetyne velvet, satin, taffeta and fine wools, but the accent just now is to be placed on crepe and velvet. The slim silhouette remains the favorite, with variations that take in tunics, straight line and bloused models, having long waistlines. The exception to the rule of the slim silhouette appears in those frocks with a quaint flavor of days gone by, that are made with tight bodices and full skirts, or in others made on the lines of the hand-some frock pictured. In this model the designer has made an overgarment, innocent of waist line and flaring in the skirt portion where panels are introduced at each side. He has pinned his faith to rich embroidery of silk and metal threads, placing it in borders and almost covering the front of the dress with it, and we can imagine the effect with duvetyne in a dark color as the foundation. There are many points in the autumn modes that give designers of afternoon frocks advantages. There is the featuring of sleeves, the uneven hem line, figured and plain crepes, beads, braids, fringes and embroidery all yearning to look their best on the frocks that must bear many comparisons.

THE NEW COATS SAY "WE AIM TO PLEASE"

"WE AIM to please" appears to be the motto that has governed the makers of our wraps for the coming winter season, for they have presented several distinctive styles in coats. You may choose a voluminous wrap, wide and full, or a cape-coat, wholly concealing the outlines of the figure, or a slim affair with snug-fitting hip line and long, bloused body, or a first cousin to the dolman or just an ample coat, but in all of them there is the flavor of the new season.

The materials used, however, are the same as those of last year or their direct descendants with new names, perhaps. Velours, chinchilla, bolivia, marvella, camel's-hair, cheviot and velvet will account for the coats for day-time wear, at least, with velvet, like fur, doing service for both day and evening. Fur has been appropriated by all materials and on most of them is found in the company of embroidery, but the embroidery is used in novel ways, and new collars and sleeves seem to increase the importance of fur trimming. The handsome coat pictured shows how effectively it is used to finish off the full, bell sleeves and to make the new, straight high collar. This model is of velours, with braid embroidery.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Give us to awake with smiles; give us to labor smilingly. As the sun lightens the world, so let our loving-kindness make bright this house of our habitation.—Stevenson.

WHAT SHALL WE EAT?

If you are fond of fish, try the following method of preparing it:

Steamed Fish.—Clean the fish and rub well with salt and pepper, lay on a buttered plate, cover with buttered paper and steam in the steamer over hot water for 30 minutes for a fish two inches thick. Drain the gravy from the pan into a cup and fill the cup with hot water to use for the sauce.

Fish Sauce.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of flour, pour the hot broth over the mixture, adding such seasonings as are needed. When well cooked, add one tablespoonful of lemon juice and pour boiling hot over four well-beaten egg yolks; stir over hot water until thick. Mask the fish with part of the sauce and send the rest to the table in a bowl.

Poached Eggs Creole Sauce.—Cook one tablespoonful of onion in two tablespoonfuls of butter until slightly brown, add one green pepper shredded and cook until soft, then add one can of tomatoes or its equivalent of fresh tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste. Reduce to one-half, add a dash of lemon juice and turn on a deep platter. Place buttered toast on this and poached eggs on the toast.

Corn Bread.—Take one cupful of cornmeal, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, add one and one-half cupfuls of sour milk and one-half cupful of sour cream or buttermilk. Add two beaten eggs and one teaspoonful of soda dissolved in the sour milk.

Maple Mousse.—Heat one cupful of maple syrup to the boiling point and boil five minutes; add slowly to the whites of three eggs beaten stiff, then add three-fourths of a tablespoonful of gelatin softened in cold water with just enough boiling water to dissolve it, beat until the mixture is cold, then fold in the whip from three cupfuls of cream, mold, pack in salt and ice, using one part of salt to four of ice and let stand for three or four hours.

If only myself could talk to myself
As I knew him a year ago,
I could tell him a lot,
That would save him a lot,
Of things that he ought to know.

TASTY DISHES.

Liver is such tender and delicate meat when nicely cooked that it should be more used and appreciated. The following recipe will be something a little different from the ordinary:

Braised Liver.—Skewer and lard with strips of salt pork the upper side of a calf's liver. Place in a deep pan, dredge with flour after seasoning well with salt and pepper. Add one-fourth cupful each of finely diced carrot, onion and celery; add one-half teaspoonful of peppercorns, six cloves, a small bit of bay leaf and two cupfuls of brown stock or water. Cover closely and bake slowly two hours, uncovering the last twenty minutes. Serve with a brown sauce and fried onions.

Ginger Pudding.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter, add one-half cupful of sugar, one egg well beaten; mix and sift two and one-fourth cupfuls of flour, three and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of ginger; add alternately with one cupful of milk to the flour mixture. Turn into a buttered mold and steam two hours. Serve with vanilla sauce.

Celery Soup.—Take one pint of water in which celery has been cooked, add one pint of milk seasoned with onion. Thicken with three level tablespoonfuls of butter and the same of flour, with one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Blend the celery water with this, and pour over the yolks of two eggs beaten well.

Rolls.—Put into a bowl three tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one teaspoonful of salt. Add two cupfuls of scalded milk. When lukewarm, add one cake of compressed yeast softened in one-fourth of a cupful of warm water. Beat well and let rise until foamy and full of bubbles. Then add two to three cupfuls of flour and knead until it has lost its stickiness and is smooth and elastic. Let rise until double its bulk. Knead again, shape into rolls, let rise and bake in a quick oven.

Coconut added to an ordinary custard pie makes it very tasty. A half-cupful of chopped black walnut meats sprinkled over the top of a custard pie makes a delicious crust.

Welsh rarebit served with croutons in place of toast is much easier to eat and especially nice. Prepare plenty of the little squares of buttered bread either fried or browned in the oven and pour the rarebit over them.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good—that it can't do any harm—and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

Young Lady, It Might Be Imagined, Would Be Noticeable in Almost Any Company.

Some alumni folks in Philadelphia were getting up a social function, when the secretary happened to mention to one of the members the fact that a young woman from Boston named Higgins would attend.

"Higgins isn't a very attractive name," he said, "but the girl herself is a beauty."

"How shall I know her?" asked the other interested at once.

"Well," said the secretary, "she's the only girl I know with Yale eyes and a Harvard complexion."

Another Smart Youngster.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones had been invited to a friend's home for tea, and the time had arrived for preparing for the visit.

"Come along, dearie," said Mrs. Jones to her three-year-old son, "and have your face washed."

"Don't want to be washed," came the reply.

"But," said mother, "you don't want to be a dirty little boy, do you? I want my little boy to have a nice clean face for the ladies to kiss."

Upon this persuasion he gave way and was washed.

A few minutes later he stood watching his father washing.

"Ha, ha, daddy!" he cried. "I know why you're washing!"

Postum for Health "There's a Reason"

In thousands of homes, a "line" is drawn at the breakfast table. Tea or coffee is served for "grown-ups" and Postum for children. But some parents do not discriminate. Caffeine and tannin, the injurious contents of coffee and tea, seriously retard the development of the delicate nerve tissues in children.

Consequently, instead of rich, satisfying Postum, children are overstimulated by the drugs in tea and coffee; and so may grow up irritable and nervous. Any doctor can tell you that this is a great evil and should be corrected.

Although some parents feel a certain justification for the personal indulgence in coffee, yet the harm to them may be equally serious. It may take a little while longer for the drugs in coffee and tea to affect an older person, but in many cases the nervous system and allied bodily functions will become weakened. The surest way to avoid such possibilities is to quit coffee entirely and drink Postum instead. The change permits you to get sound, restful sleep.

Postum is the well-known, meal-time beverage. Like thousands of others you will like it because, in flavor, it is much like a high-grade coffee.

Do away with the distinction at the table. Serve delicious Postum, piping hot, to all the family. One week's trial and it is likely that you'll never return to tea and coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

35,000 Armenian Kiddies, American Trained, the Hope for Future Peace

Boy Scouts of Near East Relief Orphanages at Alexandropol, Armenia, where 10,000 youngsters are cared for.

The baseball diamond, the football gridiron, boy and girl scout organizations, and other institutions of the American youth will play their part in the final peace in the Levant, according to Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, who is now on a tour of inspection of the work being done by that organization in Transcaucasia.

"Behind the walls of American schools and orphanages, one finds the only tranquil spots in this whole troubled territory," he writes. "Here, despite disorder, pestilence, and starvation, outside the gates ambitious young Armenian boys and girls are making the best of the opportunities offered them by their American teachers. If only our work can be continued until these children reach maturity a new generation will arise to face the problems of the Near East with the benefit of their American training to help them. At present, however, we are confronted by the possibility of having to abandon them because of lack of funds. This will mean not only the wasting of what has already been accomplished but will also result in the death of the majority of these wards of American charity. Several hundred of them died during a brief period last spring when the interior stations in the Caucasus were cut off from American food. On the other hand, a continuation of the full relief program can not help but mean a better, more peaceful region in the future."

Charles V. Vickrey
General Secretary of the Relief Organization

Approximately ninety thousand children in Anatolia, Cilicia, and Syria, besides the 35,000 in Transcaucasia, are receiving American training at present, according to Mr. Vickrey.

Bolshevism Among Capitalists as Well as Labor, says Harold Bell Wright

That the only cure for the conflict between capital and labor is a revival of the Nation's war spirit and its application to industry is the belief of the noted American author, Harold Bell Wright.

"The 'Big Idea,' he says, 'the idea of the oneness of all humanity, will come. I don't know how it will come; but somehow the appeal must be made to the loyal citizens of this nation in behalf of the humanity that is dependent for its life upon our industries, exactly as the appeal was made in behalf of the humanity that looked to us for help in time of war.'

"We must, as a nation, learn somehow to feel our work as we felt our war. The same ideals of patriotism and sacrifice and heroism that were so exalted in the war must be held up in our everyday work. We must learn to see our individual jobs in the industrial organizations of our country as we saw our places in the nation's army. As a people we must grasp the mighty fact that humanity is the issue of our mills and shops and factories and mines, exactly as it was the issue in our campaigns in France."

"The individual's attitude toward the industries of the nation," says Mr. Wright, "must be a test of his loyal citizenship just as a man's attitude toward our army was a test. And Americans dare not continue to ignore the danger that lies in the work of those emissaries who are seeking to weaken the loyalty of our workmen and who, by breeding class hatred and strife in our industries, are trying to bring about the downfall of our government and replace the stars and stripes with the flag that is as foreign to our American independence as the flag of the German Kaiser himself."

After two years of exhaustive study covering the entire country, Mr. Wright has become so impressed with the necessity of making humanity the big issue in adjusting the conflict between capital and labor that he has written a novel about it which he calls "Helen of the Old House," and which will be published in September.

Harold Bell Wright

He has placed the scene in a mill town anywhere in America. The central figure, Helen, is the daughter of a man who was formerly a workman but who has risen to ownership of the mill. Around this girl and her brother, John, Mr. Wright works out his problem and shows just how the solution of the labor question may be reached.

This is a new departure for Mr. Wright and indications are not lacking that both capital and labor feel the keenest interest, and await with some anxiety the public verdict upon this book which speaks not alone to the mind but to the heart.
